El verbo think es irregular. El pasado y el participio son la misma palabra: thought. No añadas -ed a think.

Base	think
Pasado	thought
Participio	thought
3rd person / -ing	thinks / thinking

Ejemplos

I think it is a good idea. — El verbo think da una opinión en presente.

What do you think about this film? — Después de do, el verbo queda como think.

She thought the test was easy. — La forma thought es el pasado y no necesita auxiliar.

We thought about moving to the city. — La expresión think about significa considerar una idea.

I have thought about it a lot. — Después de have, el participio también es thought.

He has thought of a new name for his dog. — La expresión think of significa encontrar una idea.

Notas

¿Think of o think about? La expresión think about significa considerar algo durante un tiempo: I am thinking about my vacation. La expresión think of significa ocurrírsete o recordar algo: I cannot think of his name. Para pedir una opinión sirven las dos: What do you think of this film? y What do you think about this film?

Pronunciación La forma thought se pronuncia /θɔt/ y rima con bought. Las letras gh son mudas.

Errores frecuentes

I thinked about it. → I thought about it. — El verbo think es irregular: su pasado es thought, nunca thinked.

She has think of a plan. → She has thought of a plan. — Después de has o have se usa el participio thought.

I am thinking it is good. → I think it is good. — Para dar una opinión se usa la forma simple think, no la forma con -ing.

Soluciones

Elige la forma correcta

1. think — Después de do, el verbo queda en base: think.
2. thought — La expresión last night indica pasado: usa thought.
3. thought — Después de has se usa el participio thought.
4. thinks — La expresión right now indica presente y brother lleva thinks.

Escribe la forma que falta

1. thought — El auxiliar have más participio da have thought.
2. thought — La forma de pasado es thought.
3. think — Después de do, el verbo queda en base.

Corrige el error

1. thought — La forma de pasado es thought, no thinked.
