

Have Got / Has Got Exercises

Level: A1

Have got and has got

Use have got or has got to talk about your things and your family, and to say what people look like: I've got a bike. She's got blue eyes.

Affirmative forms: Use have got with I, you, we and they. Use has got with he, she and it.

Short forms: You can say I've got, you've got, we've got and they've got. You can say he's got, she's got and it's got.

Negative forms: Put not after have or has: I haven't got a car. He hasn't got a sister.

Questions: For a question, put have or has first. Got comes after the person: Have you got a pen? Has she got long hair?

Short answers: Give a short answer with have or has: Yes, I have. No, she hasn't. Do not use got in a short answer.

's: has or is?: He's got a car means he has got a car. He's tall means he is tall. When got comes after 's, 's is has.
